QUAIL RIDGE COUNTRY CLUB

With a rich history beginning nearly 40 years ago, Quail Ridge Country Club set a new standard for the south Florida country club communities to come. It has been owned and governed by its members for the past quarter century, undergoing a continuing process of renewal and modernization.

Most recently, it has rebuilt and partially redesigned its two championship golf courses, renovated its classic Floridian clubhouse, and added a complete health and fitness center.

While every country club activity imaginable is available on its 600 immaculately landscaped acres (along with all the offerings of the nearby Palm Beaches), the consuming passion here is golf. Over the years there have been more than 100 member appearances in the U.S. Open, Senior Open and Senior Amateur Championships and the Ryder and Walker Cups. Its membership even included one Masters champion.

The club is home to 115 single-digit handicappers, including 30 members who belong to the prestigious Society of Seniors, which requires that its members be 53 or older with a three or better handicap and have won statewide or regional championships.

Middle and higher handicappers enjoy multiple tee positions to choose from and extensive practice facilities, including a new complete short game practice area and a well-staffed PGA instruction program.

The Quail Ridge golf tradition is also reflected in a membership that has belonged to more than 150 prestigious clubs worldwide, including Medinah, Winged Foot, Baltusrol, Congressional, Oak Hill, Pine Valley, Royal Montreal and St. Andrews in Scotland.

The community encompasses 24 villages with ownership opportunities ranging from condominiums to luxury custom homes. Member-owned, full-service Quail Ridge Country Club Realty deals exclusively with Quail Ridge real estate. A selection of current listings, advantageous pricing, and temporary membership incentives make this an excellent time to buy.
